HACK876 × SCOTIA INVESTMENTS JAMAICA LIMITED

PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP PROPOSAL

The best investments are often made before the potential is obvious.

Hack876 is inviting Scotia Investments to back Jamaica's next generation of builders, founders and problem solvers before the world knows their names.

STUDENTS	SCHOOL NETWORK	DAY

One day to build something that should exist.

Somewhere among the students who walk into Hack876 is a future founder.

Another may become an engineer.

Another may manage capital.

Another may design products used by millions.

Another may build a company that employs hundreds of Jamaicans.

Another may solve a problem none of us has noticed yet.

Most institutions will first meet them later: at university, at a career fair, when a résumé arrives, or after somebody else has already recognized their potential.

Hack876 creates an opportunity to meet them sooner.

POTENTIAL COMPOUNDS TOO.

Meet Hack876.

Hack876 is a one-day build competition for approximately 80 secondary-school students from 5th Form through Upper 6th Form, working in teams of 3 to 4, roughly 20 teams in all.

Teams pick a real problem, use modern tools including AI, get guidance from mentors, and finish the day with a working prototype and a pitch to judges. It is not a school assignment and there is no answer key.

Our 9-school network in Kingston is made up of the schools where the Hack876 team currently has relationships and can coordinate most reliably. It is not an exclusive eligibility list.

Hack876 is open to eligible students beyond those schools.

Students from elsewhere in Kingston or other parts of Jamaica may apply, subject to capacity.

In this inaugural year, students outside our immediate network may need to make their own transportation and accommodation arrangements.

That is a year-one capacity constraint, not a limit on the long-term vision.

BUILD SOMETHING THAT SHOULD EXIST.

A hackathon is bigger than software.

Innovation is broader than fintech, and Hack876 is broader than coding.

It is an open build competition. Teams choose the problem and the medium.

No team will be steered toward a finance challenge because of who sponsors the day.

A team might build:

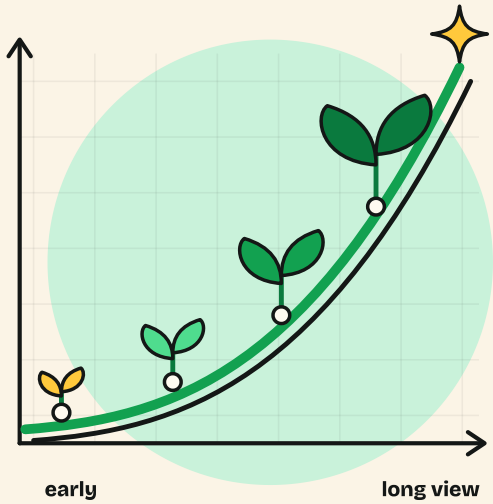

- A piece of software
- An AI tool
- An automation
- A data product
- A financial tool
- Hardware
- A robot
- A physical prototype
- A resilience solution
- Something none of us expected

The medium does not matter.

The problem-solving mindset does.

1. Identify a problem
2. Understand the constraints
3. Design a solution
4. Build
5. Test
6. Explain
7. Improve

Scotia already believes in long horizons.

Scotia Investments Jamaica Limited, wholly owned by Scotia Group Jamaica,[2] uses the line Building Wealth for Generations.[3]

Its own guidance encourages investing early, contributing regularly and investing for the long haul.[3] Its promise to clients is "Here for the future. Invested in you.", and it speaks about opening doors for the next generation.[4]

It publishes research and investment education, including Investments 101,[6] and describes a collaborative advisory approach.[5]

Hack876 is an opportunity to apply that same long-term instinct to Jamaican human potential.

To be clear: Hack876 is not an investment product, and these students are not prospective clients. The overlap is more fundamental. Both ideas begin with seeing potential, creating access and taking the long view.

05 ALREADY IN MOTION

This would extend a story Scotia is already telling.

SCOTIARISE

A 10-year, $500 million commitment to economic resilience.

Scotiabank's social impact initiative focuses on youth and education, among other areas: increasing employment prospects, life opportunities and full participation in the economy.[7]

YOUTHRISE · ANNOUNCED 2024

Nearly 800 young people in Jamaica and Mexico.

A three-year project with SOS Children's Villages Canada, with J$106 million from Scotiabank, providing digital skills, entrepreneurship training, career coaching, mentorship and internship opportunities.[8]

2025

Financial literacy with Jamaican youth.

Scotia Group reports financial literacy sessions for young people in Kingston and Montego Bay, delivered with SOS Children's Villages, covering budgeting, saving and investing.[2]

Education. Digital skills. Entrepreneurship. Employability. Mentorship. Financial literacy.

Those are Scotia's themes, and they are also what a day at Hack876 looks like in practice.

The point is alignment, not affiliation.

Hack876 is independent of ScotiaRISE and YouthRISE. How Scotia chooses to frame any support internally is entirely Scotia's decision.

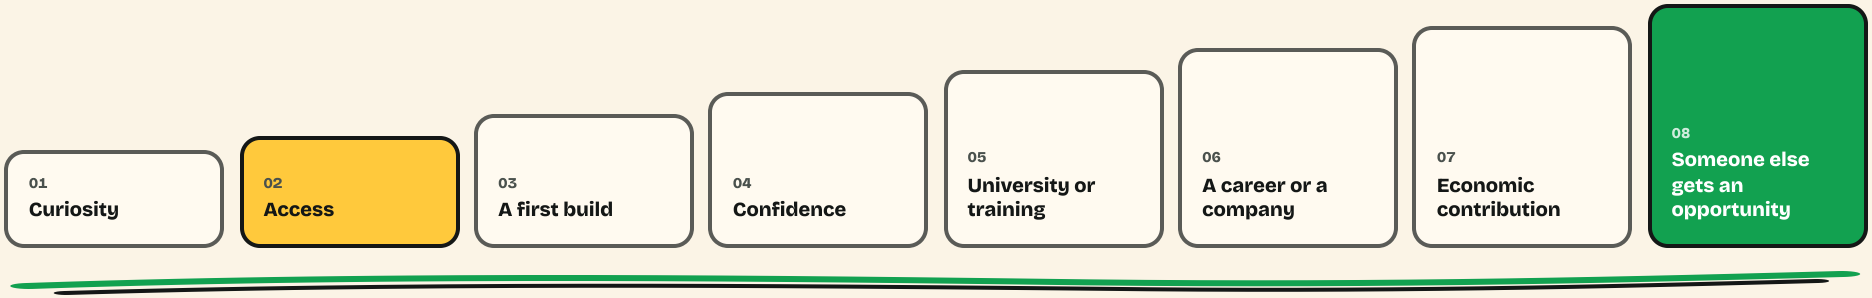

06 POTENTIAL COMPOUNDS

The earliest investment is access.

Talent is everywhere. Access to the room where talent gets noticed is not.

Hack876 puts ambitious students in that room earlier: with real problems, real tools and people who take their ideas seriously.

What happens next can travel a long way.

The return does not have to show up this quarter to matter.

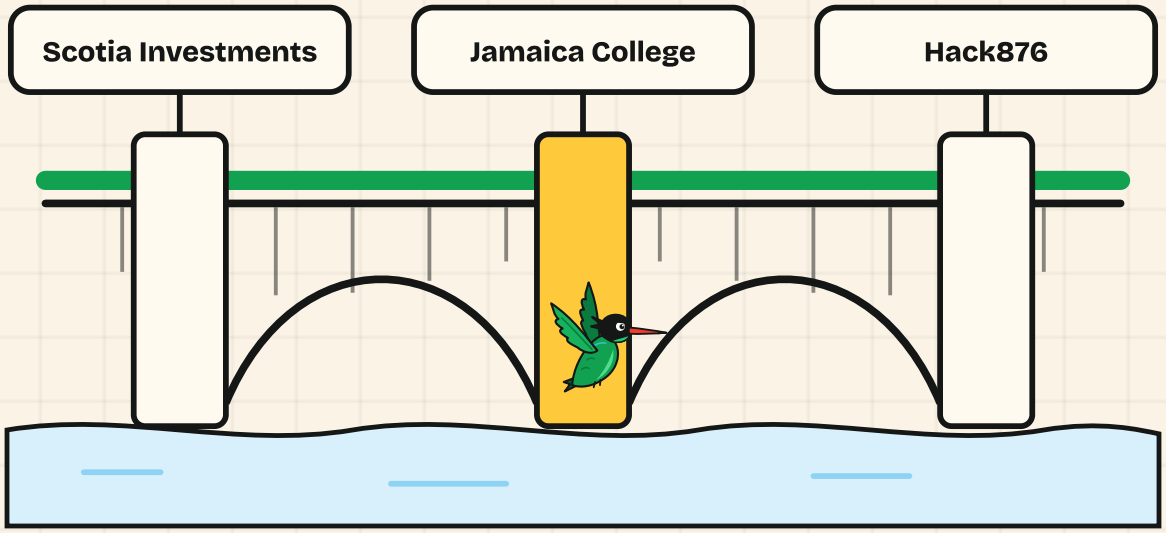

9 schools. One room.

Hack876 begins with the schools where we already have relationships and can coordinate most reliably. Formal confirmations are still in progress for most of them, and the network is not an exclusive eligibility list.

- Hillel Academy
- Campion College
- Jamaica College
- Immaculate Conception High School
- Wolmer's
- Ardenne High School
- American International School of Kingston
- St. Andrew High School for Girls
- St. George's College

Jamaica College matters to this conversation for a simple reason: a relationship already connects Scotia Investments, Jamaica College and Hack876. JC does not own or host Hack876, and Hack876 remains a multi-school event. But it is why this introduction feels natural.

Partnerships work better when someone carries the context.

Hack876 is not looking for a cheque and a logo followed by silence. We want a relationship Scotia understands internally and Hack876 can execute well externally.

Padrique Duncan is the person making this introduction possible.

If Padrique is open to it, we would love for him to help steward the relationship on Scotia's side: carrying context in both directions, helping identify the right people to involve, and helping us build something useful over time.

WHAT STEWARDSHIP COULD LOOK LIKE

- ✓ Carrying feedback between both sides
- ✓ Helping coordinate internal Scotia conversations
- ✓ Helping identify Scotia judges, mentors or speakers
- ✓ Keeping the relationship focused and useful
- ✓ Helping both sides decide what a second year could look like

An invitation, not an obligation.

The most valuable thing Scotia can bring is not necessarily the cheque.

PEOPLE IN THE ROOM.

01

Judges

Evaluating problem selection, execution and communication.

02

Mentors

Business-model, finance and product thinking for teams that want it.

03

Speakers

Showing students the range of careers inside a modern financial institution.

04

Founder sounding board

Helping students pressure-test an idea like a first-time founder.

05

Careers conversation

Honest, informal conversations about paths into finance and business.

06

Financial-literacy touchpoint

An optional, general-education session if it fits the programme.

GROUND RULES WE WILL HOLD OURSELVES TO

- No selling of investment products to students.
- No collection of students' financial information.
- No implied employment, internships or accounts unless separately agreed.

15 YEAR ONE

Deliberately focused.

Our vision is national. This inaugural staging does not have national-event resources, and we will not pretend it does.

Approximately 80 students. A school network of 9 in Kingston. One day, done properly.

Build the first one well.
Learn from it.
Earn the right to make the second one bigger.

No multi-year commitment required.

2027

Support the first Hack876.

That is the whole ask.

FUTURE POSSIBILITIES, ONLY IF BOTH SIDES FIND IT VALUABLE. NOT COMMITMENTS.

- Recurring event partnership
- Scotia colleagues returning as mentors and judges
- Deeper entrepreneurship or financial-literacy programming
- Support for students from outside Kingston
- Career exposure once participants reach an appropriate age
- Reaching more schools
- A Hack876 alumni network
