What parents and guardians need to know.

Hack 876 is a one-day build competition for Jamaican secondary-school students. Teams build a working prototype and present it to industry judges. It is supervised, it is not overnight, and no programming experience is required.

Drop-off, pick-up and transport

DETAILS FORTHCOMING

Drop-off, pick-up and any transport arrangements have not been finalized. Until they are, please do not assume transport is provided. Procedures will be shared with families ahead of time.

Emergency contacts

DETAILS FORTHCOMING

An on-site contact and emergency procedures will be shared with every family before the event.

Costs

DETAILS FORTHCOMING

Our goal is that students do not need to buy any technology tools to build their projects. Whether there is any participation cost has not been confirmed. It will be stated here before anyone is asked to commit.

AI tools and age limits

DETAILS FORTHCOMING

No. Some third-party AI tools set a minimum age, and some are for adults only. Not every AI product is approved for use by minors. Organizers are still choosing age-appropriate tools and will tell participants which ones they may use.

Can a parent approve an 18+ tool?

No. Parental consent does not override a provider's hard minimum age. If a tool is for adults only, students under 18 will not be asked or allowed to use it at Hack 876.

Honest status. Anything marked “Details forthcoming” has not been decided. Families will hear from Hack 876 before a child is asked to commit to anything. A school recommendation does not guarantee a place.
